From the Author

Dear Reader, I have a degree in History and love doing research. It's my favorite part of writing a book. I love the Viking and Medieval time periods and had started researching, to discover a storyline I'd like to write. I was researching Rollo, the first Duke of Normandy, and became enthralled by his father, who had four sons. (Rollo was the 4th son and, with no lands to inherit, ended up raiding on his own people along the Vik, which got him outlawed from Norway.) I called my father to tell him about these amazing people. He said, "You know, I think they're in our family tree." I held the phone while Dad went to get his genealogy book. Sure enough, my line goes through William the Conqueror and right up to Rollo. (Tongue in cheek, of course. I suspect the line traces back that far because it goes through so much royalty.) At any rate, I discovered I had been researching my own family tree and didn't even know it. For this reason, "The Heart's Warrior" was an especially fun book to write. I hope you enjoy reading it as much as I enjoyed writing it. :)
