Make Training Evaluation Work By Jack J. Phillips, Patricia Pulliam Phillips, Toni Krucky Hodges

Evaluation is key to proving the value of training, yet many organizations still struggle with implementing a fully functioning evaluation program that is integrated throughout the learning process. This title is designed to break through organizational inertia and is structured to allow both selective exploration of the topic by seasoned professionals or beginning-to-learning experiences for the less experienced practitioner.

Editorial Review

Review

In this resource-tight world, it isn't enough to assert the value of learning; training directors and chief learning officers have to be able to prove value in terms that make sense to senior line leadership. Make Training Evaluation Work provides a practical roadmap to implementing evaluation programs that build consensus among key stakeholders about the value of learning investments. This book enables you to conclusively answer the question. Are we getting our money's worth? --Carol E. Willett, Chief Learning Officer, US Government Accountability Office

This book is a must-read resource for anyone in the learning profession. The authors' many years of leadership and experience in the field of evaluation is translated into practical and sound guidance any practitioner--whether newcomer or veteran--can use to leverage the power of evaluation. --Robert O. Brinkerhoff, Professor, Western Michigan University

What a tremendous fieldbook for the learning professional charged with implementation of evaluation and ROI best practices! This is a book that is practical, specific, timely and filled with great tools, templates, and references. In an age of increased pressure to demonstrate the impact of training programs and interventions, Make Training Evaluation Work is truly a roadmap for success. --Rebecca L. Ray, Former President, Comcast University and Senior Vice President Comcast Cable Communications LLC
